

ABSTRACT

An optical member comprising an at least one optical film, wherein an end face of the at least one optical film is covered with 5 water-repellent materials, is useful to suppress occurrence of defects concerning the optical film, in particular, defects concerning polarizer, which are caused under an atmosphere with high temperature and high humidity.